

DALLAS SYMPHONY

ORCHESTRA

2018 Music Teacher of the Year

General Information

In recognition of the fact that elementary music teachers make an important and positive difference in young people's lives, the Dallas Symphony will be honoring these teachers and the impactful work they do by presenting a Music Teacher of the Year Award.

Submitting an application is more than a chance to win an award. Each teacher that invests time into this process also strengthens the DSO's voice in advocating for music education in North Texas. We appreciate your support and dedication in this regard.

Who is eligible?

Current, full-time elementary music teachers in Dallas ISD, with a tenure of at least 3 years.

If chosen as a finalist, nominee must commit to attendance at the DSO concert on Friday evening, March 23rd. Complimentary tickets will be provided for finalists (friends & family will be offered substantial discounts).

Who can nominate?

Anyone with first-hand knowledge of the teacher and his or her work may nominate. Self-nominations will be accepted.

Judging Criteria:

- A successful track record of measurable program growth
- Demonstrated student achievement in instrumental or vocal performance
- Demonstrated student achievement in Music Memory
- Strong cultural leadership and influence in the community

Awards

Finalists: All finalists will receive a free ticket to the concert on March 23rd, recognition from the stage before the concert, a finalist's certificate, and a collection of valuable items from the Williamson Music Company.

Winner: The Music Teacher of the Year will be invited onto the Meyerson stage to be honored before the concert on March 23rd, and will receive a check for $500. They will also receive an engraved plaque from the Dallas Symphony, to be presented to them on their home campus at a later date.
